

the contemplation on life or death in the 'To be or not to be'. However this scene made me look at the subject from a different angle again, which I always find very nutritious and inspiring. Lets go and fuel everything more today. I realise we're not there yet ofcourse but I'm also happy with that, somehow I hope we will never really be there to keep this search, play and creativity, as long as we keep on taking a step up every time!

See you soon.

Love
Joany