Dear Participant,

We welcome you to join us during today's Archetype experiment. During this experiment we will test both you and the functionality of your chosen archetype to evaluate whether they can contribute to the collections of the Museum of Lost Ecologies.

You have selected the 'Scribe' archetype. With this letter you will find an instruction enclosed for the collecting practice. Here is a rundown of your role, responsibilities, and skillset:

We are a living asset to every researcher. Our focus lands on the other. Our nature is to be in movement. This ever-fluid state complements the happenings which revolve around the specific environment in which our being is placed. Therefore we roam around in a quiet, meditative, yet alert manner. In this spatio-temporality we help The Sandwalker who always keeps track of all the multiplicities around by keeping the time. We collect impressions, realities, activities, events and more about what is being undergone. We take notes in various forms about what is happening.

Program of today's experiment:

- (Un)Becoming practice
- Collecting evaluation
- (Un)Becoming practice

After we have conducted this experiment, there will be ample time to discuss your experience and give feedback for past/present/future improvements. We look forward to having you on our team.

Yours faithfully,

Dr. Cell (they/them) & Dr. S. Walker (she/they)
