Participant's quote:

"I didn't think at the beginning that this project would have had this impact on me and my colleagues. This experience changed our view of musical creation in such different and various ways and we have grown inside it together, which is beautiful. No competition or bad feelings were there during the period of the project, we started friendships and consolidated relationships with respect and esteem between each one of us, so rather than only the musical and practical approach, I believe that the human bond created together was the most beautiful thing, that led to us being even more aware of how is this important when working first with just one person you don't know and then in big groups. I am sure that we are all thankful for the experience and that it will have a special place in our hearts."
