Minotaurus

Mein Erbe
ist das Rätsel
das mich
fühlen lässt
dass ich niemals
wissen werde
wer ich bin
wozu ich bin
noch was mich
mit der Welt
außerhalb meiner selbst verbinden könnt

Sonja Kloevekorn, 2009

Mönche am Meer

Eine konsonantische Auflösung für einen Sprechperformer oder Sprechchor

Manchmal malen Mönche am Meer mehr als manche Maler am Meer malen mögen.
Mehr Mönche als manche mögen aber manchmal am Meer mal gar nichts machen.

Manche mögen Mönche am Meer nicht.
Manche Mönche mögen manche am Meer auch nicht, vor allem wenn die gar gar nichts machen.
Dies möge nur den Mönchen möglich sein.

Mehr möchte man in München
zu Mönchen am Meer
gar gar nicht sagen müssen.

Aber hören möchte man Mönche mal einmal am Meer.
Und manchmal sogar mal mehr im Meer, sofern man das mal einmal möglich machen möchte.

Manchmal malen Mönche im Meer mehr als manche Mönche am Meer malen mögen.
Mehr Mönche als manch andere Mönche mögen aber manchmal im Meer mal gar nichts mehr machen.

Deswegen mögen manche Mönche im Meer nicht.
Manche Mönche mögen manche im Meer auch nicht, vor allem wenn die gar gar nichts darin machen.
Dies möge nur den Mönchen möglich sein.

Mehr möchte man in München
zu Mönchen im Meer
gar gar nicht sagen müssen.

Aber hören möchte man Mönche mal einmal im Meer.
Und manchmal auch wieder mal mehr am Meer, sofern man das mal einmal möglich machen möchte.

Minotaurus

My heritage
is the enigma
which makes me feel that I will never know
who I am
what I am here for nor
what could connect me
with the world
outside myself

Monks by the Sea

A consonantic dissolution for a speaking performer or speaking choir

By the sea, monks paint sometimes more than some painters may want to paint by the sea.
More monks than some may not want to do anything at all, sometimes by the sea.

Some do not like monks by the sea.
Some monks also don't like some by the sea, especially if they are not doing anything at all, at all.
This may be possible only for the monks.

In Munich, to monks by the sea,
one doesn't want to have to say more at all, at all, at all.

But, once some time by the sea, one wants to hear monks.
And sometimes even more then in the sea,
if, at some time, one wants to make this possible once.

Sometimes monks paint in the sea more than some monks may want to paint by the sea.
More monks than some other monks though may not want to do anything more, sometimes, in the sea.

That's why some don't like monks in the sea.
Some monks also don't like some in the sea, especially if they don't do anything at all, at all in there.
This may be possible only for the monks.

In Munich, to monks by the sea,
one doesn't want to have to say
more at all, at all, at all.

But, once, some time in the sea, one wants to hear monks.
And also sometimes again more then by the sea,
if, at some time, one wants to make this possible once.
