

Creative images

According to Johnson (2003), it may also be effective to mentally create a image or action that occurs in the work when listening to or playing a piece. The musician can focus on this movie in his head while playing to give more life to the musical composition.