

CRITICAL CULTURAL PRACTICES: The Immigrant Artist Biennial (TIAB) and Diasporic Curating

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 1, 2020 / 6:30-8:00 PM

In this panel, Katya Grokhovsky and Stephanie Misa will discuss how they address identity, diversity, and culture through curatorial and cultural production.

The Immigrant Artist Biennial (TIAB) is a multi-site artist-run project, presenting work by U.S based immigrant artists from around the world. TIAB's aim is to facilitate a diverse and experimental discourse and to build a globally connected and united community in times of extreme anti-immigrant sentiment, unrest, discrimination and exclusion. Sites include the Brooklyn Museum, Green-Wood Cemetery, and the ¡CORÓNATE! festival. TIAB was established by immigrant artist, curator, organizer and educator Katya Grokhovsky.

Born in Cebu City, Philippines, Stephanie Misa's curatorial projects include Archipelago Mountain (co-curated with Ana de Almeida), which explored identity formation, embodiment, colonial histories, and diaspora, drawing from Edouard Glissant's notion of "archipelagic thinking," a group of islands that provokes an alternative imaginary: a reassessment of the insularity of bound cultures, of nation-states, and the heaviness of "continental thought." In Behind the Terrain—Sketches on Imaginative Landscape, Misa examined the notion of landscape including immigration, borders, identities, and landscapes of practice.
