the audience:

draft 26

dissensus

[prologue]

Dear member,

welcome to draft the audience with me. It is a pleasure to have you here.

I have a proposition for you. It is an invitation to create something together. The audience is a great interest and love of mine. Having arrived here, I assume it interests you as well. So, I would like to ask you to be my co-researcher for the following 30 minutes. Ok?

If you consent, here is how it works:

[act]

The French philosopher Jacques Rancière bases his political philosophy on the idea of dissensus. Dissensus is the opposite of consensus; it is disagreement on the level of sensing, of distribution of the sensible. "The essence of politics is the manifestation of dissensus as the presence of two worlds in one", writes Rancière.

Now, for the duration of 30 minutes, and in your own personal way, I would ask you to study these questions inspired by Rancière:

How does dissensus appear here? How can I dissent?

The act starts at the moment when you step into to theatre space. You are free to move and act in the space in the way of your choice.

The act consists of the audience composing itself.

Yours,
Tuomas

[epilogue]

P.S. After the act, there is a panel and a discussion.

the audience:

is a series of experiments and expositions
premiering in various venues and contexts
more or less connected to the medium of performance

poses the audience as a question
considers the creation, or exposure, of a collectivity
a receptive, attentive plurality
of dissenting and consenting beings
