It is life. And every breath we take and the things that exist around us...

It is a lovely light, but no one can see it.

It is from here to eternity a light so bright one cannot close one’s eyes around it.

Moves itself and so...